In the event of unacceptable behavior, if parents are unavailable, proper authorities may be contacted.

Although the South Country Library is happy to serve the needs of children of all ages, staff cannot be expected to supervise minors while carrying out their professional responsibilities. Young children must be accompanied, monitored, attended to and adequately supervised at all times. A parent, guardian or adult 18 years or older must be present and supervise any child under the age of 10 years old at all times. The Library reserves the right to contact the appropriate authorities if a child under 10 is left unattended at the Library.
